ORDER

LEWIS A. KAPLAN, District Judge.

The terms of the defendant's probation do not require electronic monitoring. Assuming for the sake of discussion that there is any uncertainty on this point, the Court, on application of the defendant and with the consent of the government, hereby modifies the terms of defendant's probation to provide that electronic monitoring shall not be applied.

The defendant also seeks court intervention with respect to the question whether time spent in business travel should count toward his period of home confinement. That request is denied.

SO ORDERED.
